Elevator Reflection #1: Arnav Krishnan

I feel confident in our ability to complete the Elevator project, even with 2 people. I think the code will be slightly easier for us than the analysis, as it is less open-ended. However, I think we will have a great analysis as well. My biggest fear is that I will forget to push code to github, or that me and sarp will have convergent branches and cause git errors. I still wonder about the analysis, and how we will analyze the performance of the 3 elevators (avg wait time, # of stair-takers, etc.)